2019-2021 VISION FOR 31ST DISTRICT

“I am really excited for our next two years together. We are going to work together to build stronger units, start new ones and implement changes as they come at us. Together, we will take on the challenges that will come our way. We will support our schools’ goals and missions. We will support programs that will benefit all of the kids in the 31st District.”
Legislation and Founders Day. Talk about something that just goes hand in hand. Why PTA? Our number one question. Especially during this pandemic - locked up at home and no-on campus activities. More than ever - Why PTA?

I come out of California State PTA Legislative meetings so energized and excited about what we can do. Reaching out to all of our local leaders and letting them know we are here to support their efforts towards: “Promoting the welfare of children and youth in home, school, places of worship and throughout the community. To raise the standards of home life. To advocate for laws that further the education, physical and mental health, welfare and safely of children and youth.”

Did you notice, nowhere in that statement did it say we had to sell cupcakes or host Restaurant Nights on campus to be effective leaders!

Never have we felt so all alone. But we are not, we are PTA strong. We are working towards getting back on campus, while maintaining the health and safety of our children and our staff. So what can we do? Get vaccinated! When your turn comes up, please sign up and show up. When you are ready to send your children back to campus talk to them about the changes they will see. Wearing face masks, new schedules, fewer students. Remind them this is only temporary. This time, next year, it will be a memory. Give them information. Power is knowledge, and in this day, we need to give our kids all the power they can handle.

Founders Day, 124 years ago, three ladies got together and decided it was time to speak up and advocate for children, to:

- Eliminate forced child labor
- Implement a juvenile court system
- Advocate for car seats and safety belts
- Promote the polio vaccine program
- Turn the original Penny Kitchens into our Federal Lunch Program

How will we honor those ladies and their hard work?

- Will your school host Covid-19 vaccines/testing on campus?
- Will you volunteer to help?
- Will you identify areas that need to be addressed and reach out to your local Assembly Members?

Start looking around your online community and plan for a full Founders Day celebration next year.
If you want support, I happen to know your 31st District PTSA President would love to help you with an introduction to some of the amazing legislators, she has recently met.

A hugely important step is getting your nominating committees working hard to find new leadership. The nominating committee is tasked with choosing the best candidates to serve as officers to run your PTA next term. A member of the nominating committee is expected to understand and appreciate:

- Duties and eligibility requirements of board positions
- Skill sets and time commitment needed for each position
- Consideration of potential nominees based on abilities as well as capacity for leadership growth
- Selection of a slate of officers that reflects a school community
- Importance of keeping all deliberations confidential

When you have your new officers and committee chairs, make sure to update job binders. For those of you who did not get a binder from your predecessor, shame on them. Don’t do that to the next person who takes over your job.

Make sure the “How to be Me” binder is updated with a copy of your unit bylaws, a copy of your job description, a list of people you worked with who were helpful, copies of flyers, timelines and programs that you hosted. Be sure the next guy knows what to expect.

Write a note saying you are always available to help if they need support.

Please join us at our Founders Day Meeting March 10th 7:00 pm. Wear your fancy Pajama’s. Please register in advance! http://31stdistptsa.org/founders-day-2021/

REOPENING SCHOOLS SAFELY
From California state PTA

Celia Jaffe, President of California State PTA, has issued an opinion piece on behalf of California State PTA’s 700,000 members in which she urges the Governor to adopt 10 Key Recommendations for the timely and safe reopening of schools.

“Schools need to open as soon as practically possible while protecting the health and well-being of students, staff and families,” Jaffe says in the piece, which prioritizes equitable, sufficient funding to cover reopening costs, robust school-parent communication, and expanded learning programs to address learning loss over the last 10 months.

“Not only are children falling behind academically, but the social isolation and fears of illness and death are taking an enormous toll on their emotional health. California’s students are counting on the legislature and the governor to come up with a realistic school reopening plan that meets the needs of all our school communities.”

Since the start of the pandemic, the Governor and the Superintendent of Public Instruction have included the California State PTA in discussions dealing with the pandemic. We thank them for including the input of parents. PTA held statewide listening sessions to gather the thoughts of parents throughout the state on pandemic related issues, and we continue to hear from parents, students and teachers across California.

We urge the legislature and the Governor to adopt 10 recommendations for the timely and safe reopening of schools.

Ten Recommendations

• Coordinate Efforts – The legislature and the Governor must agree on a coordinated approach to reopening schools as quickly as safely possible. The legislative bill, AB 10 and the Governor’s office budget plan, Safe Schools For All Plan must coordinate to reflect the same timelines, safety metrics, and funding to quickly streamline the process of reopening schools.

• Equitable Sufficient Funding – There must be sufficient funding to cover the additional costs related to opening schools in person. And it must be equitable. All students should generate the same base funding grant with an LCFF adjustment that recognizes the impacts of the pandemic on disadvantaged students. Opening schools will require social-emotional support for students and staff, and services to meet students’ and families’ needs including safe transportation for students.

• Extra Funding for Health-Related Costs – Funding to pay for testing, vaccines, contact tracing, and other COVID-related health costs should not be from Proposition 98 funds. Every Proposition 98 dollar spent on non-instructional costs is one less dollar to educate our children.

• Prioritize Safety of School Staff – The Governor, the legislature and local governments must prioritize vaccinations for school staff, especially school employees who are already working in-person.

• Parent Communication and Input – School districts must provide opportunities for robust input and feedback as they prepare and execute reopening plans. They must ensure parents representing the diversity of the community are included in decision making.

• In-Person Attendance – Parents and families should be able to choose whether a child returns to school in-person depending on the health of the child and their family situation.

• Mental Health and Start Times – To protect student health and well-being, middle schools should not start before 8:00 am and high schools before 8:30 am. This is particularly critical to support the mental health of students.

• Expanded Learning and Learning Loss – After school, summer school and childcare programs need to be available and coordinated with the school day. All schools should develop programs to address learning loss.

• Follow Health Guidelines – Schools should not open in person unless it is safe for students and staff. School districts should adhere to the requirements set forth by the California Department of Public Health and county health departments regarding the reopening of schools.

• Realistic Timeline – Any timeline for the reopening of schools should consider the needs of parents and teachers and respect the most accurate health guidelines. This includes making sure the school facility is safe for re-opening.

LEGISLATION CONFERENCE: “A PATH TO EQUITY”
From California State PTA

Why focus on EQUITY?

California State PTA believes that all children deserve a quality education regardless of the community in which they live, the color of their skin, their language, their gender identity, or their immigration status.

But too many California students from underserved communities are deprived of an equal opportunity to learn. At this year’s Legislation Conference, we explore how we can use our collective voices to influence legislation and the state budget to improve equity, access, and opportunity for all of California’s children.

Advocacy Agenda for Equity

• Poverty, Income, and Racial Inequality: The effects of discrimination, past and present, perpetuate today’s economic inequalities, destabilizing family security at its most basic level. PTA seeks legislation to address poverty, and the income and racial inequities that affect millions of California families.

• Early Learning: PTA supports quality childcare, pre-school and early learning for all children.

• Health and Welfare: Physical, social, emotional, and mental health needs must be met before students can thrive. PTA supports school and community programs that protect the health and welfare of all children and families, including community schools, school-based health services, counseling, nutrition, and other support services.

• Education Funding: California’s school finance system must provide stable, sustainable, equitable, and adequate funding to meet the diverse needs of all our students, including before and after-school programs, summer school, and distance learning.

• Teaching: PTA supports the recruitment and development of an educator workforce that is reflective of the student population, and that all students have qualified and effective teachers delivering a full curriculum.

• Curriculum: PTA believes that all students deserve an education that prepares them for successful entry into society, college, and the work force. All students should be taught a full curriculum including the arts, P.E., and civics that provides them with the knowledge, skills, and support they need to thrive and become engaged members of society. Instruction should be personalized, culturally relevant, and responsive. Coursework must address racism and bias to counteract the institutional and structural biases and related traumas that often drive inequitable outcomes for students.

California State PTA is thrilled to report that Legislation Conference 2021 was a smashing success!

This article was written by Kitty Cahalan, President of Blair School PTSA in Pasadena (First District)

In it she offers a high-level overview of our inspiring speakers, the equity best practices they espouse, and how they inspired participants to advocate for equity in education.

"The theme of equity echoed throughout the conference: access, inclusive approaches, and listening to all the voices in our communities. Our path toward equity requires that our local and state leaders share a coherent, unified message that puts the needs of the most vulnerable first. Not only was this message shared in multiple legislative meetings, but PTA participants left the conference with the tools to continue to forge this path forward for our students."

Equity best practices were discussed in sessions about equity in the arts, community schools, and schools as incubators for democracy.

• Tom DeCaigny, California Alliance for Arts Education, stated that even though the arts are shown to be effective for development of motor skills, a powerful educational tool for students with disabilities, and are mandated by the state, arts education implementation continues to fall short in districts throughout the state. DeCaigny identified PTA as a key messenger and urged coordinated messaging for the arts, especially during remote learning.

• Michael Essien, Martin Luther King Jr. Academic Middle School Principal, shared how adherence to the school’s North Stars – whole child, student voice, belonging and rigorous education – combined with ongoing staff training in implicit bias, as well as community partners to bring tiered interventions to students, helped the school meet students and their families where they are. When students feel healthy, safe, and included, he said, they will be ready to learn.

• John Rogers, UCLA’s Institute for Democracy, Education, and Access (IDEA) examined mission statements and LCAPs from districts across the state, looking for indicators that districts consider themselves responsible for the civic education of their students, and found very few districts include keywords such as “democracy” and “civic participation.” Rogers encouraged participants to consider their school districts’ role in furthering democracy and to encourage students to learn how to participate in their communities’ civic lives.

Each of these speakers gave clear, actionable information for the advocates in attendance to use to further the call for equity.

Thirty-first District PTSA had a great contingent of members attending the Legislation Conference, “A Path to Equity” during the week of February 8, 2021. Equity involves trying to understand and give people what they need to enjoy healthy, productive lives. The process is ongoing, requiring us to identify and overcome intentional and unintentional barriers arising from bias or systemic structures.

An important aspect of the Conference, and an essential part of our learning experience was “visiting” with our legislators. A 31st District team was identified from those who attended the first two days to the Conference: Barbara Smith, Mireira Moran, Heidi Brewington, Kimberly Amado, Kelly Mattinson, Ari McIntyre, Lauren Jacobs and me, Carla.

The team members were all constituents of one or more of the legislators, representing all ages of children K-12 as well as higher education. The diverse team was able to share insight into a broad spectrum of personal concerns related to equity in education, health, human services, mental health, and access for our children.

Zoom meetings were coordinated and scheduled by our team leader Heidi Brewington, a member of California State PTA Legislative Team. We met with representatives of Assemblymembers Nazarian, Gabriel, Rivas, Valladares and Senators Hertzberg and Stern.

We were able to discuss not only PTA equity issues, but key focus areas of the legislators, including childhood hunger, vaccine distribution, mental health issues, homelessness, safe school reopening, childcare and early childhood education. We opened the door for ongoing communication and collaboration to seek equitable changes to opportunities for all children and youth.
One of the most important roles of California State PTA is to create and support laws that improve the lives of all California children.

Join California State PTA Director of Legislation Shereen Walter and members of the Legislation Team during their monthly webinar, where all the latest information is discussed.

The webinars take place the first Wednesday of the month from 7:00 – 8:00 p.m. Here is the schedule of upcoming webinars:

- April 7, 2021
- May 5, 2021
- June 2, 2021

The Legislation Team recently started a social media challenge to encourage PTA members and leaders to spread information about the following important and timely subjects:

- #DeclineToSign the referendum on SB 793 – Protect CA’s kids from Big Tobacco
- Get Out the Vote
- Yes on Proposition 15 – Schools and Communities First
- Yes on Proposition 16 – Opportunity for All Californians

They put together templates for each topic with sample wording and images so that your unit, council or district can quickly and easily post them on social media accounts. Use the hashtag #PTA4Kids on Twitter so we can like or retweet your post!

- For the Prop. 16 template:
Every era of equity progress has come on the heels of social upheaval, when people of conscience joined together to confront injustice and inequality.

The protests now enveloping our nation are, in one sense, long overdue. Every year in the United States, more than 1,000 civilians are killed by police, and Black people are disproportionately harmed. These murders and the lack of justice that has routinely accompanied them are, in turn, part of a pattern of institutionalized racism that limits the opportunities of African Americans and other people of color in every aspect of society: employment, housing, health care, and, yes, education.

The results of this discrimination have been clear throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, as children and families of color have experienced the results of greater infection and mortality rates, unemployment, housing and food instability, and the digital divide—which prevents children from engaging in education and their parents from engaging in telehealth, job searches, access to benefits, or deliveries of groceries and medicine.

Addressing inequality should not be an academic exercise or an isolated performative act—we who believe in educational justice must commit to the long-game of dismantling and replacing practices that have reproduced educational inequality over time. We know that, just as Black people are racially profiled and over-policed in communities, Black children are criminalized and targeted by discriminatory discipline practices in schools that suspend and expel them disproportionately.

The research on the benefits of culturally responsive, integrated education for all students is well-documented and includes not only enhanced achievement and critical thinking skills, but also greater cross-cultural understanding; reduced bias and prejudice; and stronger civic participation in a diverse global economy, among others.

A foundation for this progress must be the fully equitable funding of schools, so that those serving the students with the greatest needs receive more money, not less, as is typically the case. Right now, districts serving the largest populations of Black, Latinx, and Native American students receive on average about $1,800 less per student in state and local funding than those districts serving the fewest students of color. These funding disparities have serious consequences for student academic outcomes, as research shows that money matters for resources that have significant impact on student outcomes, such as class sizes, curriculum, and access to qualified teachers.

CELEBRATING FOUNDERS’ DAY AND WOMEN’S HISTORY MONTH 2021
From California State PTA

February 17 is an important anniversary for PTA. On this day in 1897, Alice McLellan Birney and Phoebe Apperson Hearst founded the National Congress of Parents and Teachers with a mission to better the lives of children in education, health and safety. In 1926, Selena Sloan Butler formed the National Congress of Colored Parents and Teachers to advocate for children, especially African American children in segregated communities. After decades of work in parallel and in partnership, the two organizations unified in 1970.

Alice McLellan Birney, Phoebe Apperson Hearst and Selena Sloan Butler, were women of imagination and courage. They had a simple idea—to improve the lives and future of all children. They understood the power of individual action, worked beyond the accepted barriers of their day and took action to change the world for all children.

Ever since its inception, PTA has been a leader in supporting legislation and programs that benefit children and families. Why not show your PTA pride by celebrating Founders' Day with your school and your community? Here are some ways you can do it:

- Plan a virtual Founders’ Day party: Get ideas and tips on how to plan and execute an online celebration that honors our founders and helps your school community truly understand that PTA does more than bake sales and other stereotypical activities. https://mopta.org/wp-content/uploads/2016/07/2016-2017-Tool-Kit-PTA-Programs-and-Special-Events.pdf

- Include some facts about PTA’s founders and history in your newsletter: Let your members know the significant impact PTA has made through the years to help remind everyone what PTA stands for, and the legacy we are continuing today. To learn about PTA history http://toolkit.capta.org/know-the-pta/a-brief-history/

- Give PTA founders a shout-out on your PTA’s social media accounts: Download graphics and banners to use on Facebook, Instagram, Twitter and other platforms at www.capta.org/founders-day-resources. Below is some sample verbiage you can use that may even inspire members in your community to join your PTA:

- Give an Honorary Service Award: These awards are designed to acknowledge either individuals or organizations who have supported PTA’s legacy and mission by providing outstanding service to children and youth in the community. For more information on the award categories https://capta.org/pta-leaders/programs/service-awards/. To purchase pins, certificates and other HSA items from the PTA Store https://stores.shoppta.com/dashboard.lasso.

- Invite new members to join! It’s easier than ever to join PTA – share your PTA’s "join" link with the community, and make sure to tell them about the Join option on the California State PTA website: www.capta.org/join.

Thank you for continuing to be the connection between our schools, families, and communities.

For those of you who are looking for ways to continue growing your membership during this time away from campus, here are a couple of fairly easy ways to keep your membership growing:

- Post a link for someone to join your PTA or your membership form on all of your social media platforms.
- If this is something you did earlier in the year, you may want to update that original message.
- Remind your community of the things that your PTA is continuing to do while we are away from our campuses. Whether it’s providing virtual programs, or sharing resources for our families, or having a really great newsletter, it’s important to remind our school community that PTA is still here.
- Founders’ Day is fast approaching. This is a great opportunity to reach out to your past presidents, board members, and families to see if they are willing to support your PTA.

The Membership Drive Challenge will take your PTA on a virtual drive through our state. We will have eight different checkpoints throughout the year. The game board/map and checkpoint descriptions are included in the links below:

LEADERSHIP
Submitted by Kimberly Amado, Vice-President Leadership

Have you ever wondered why you have to have elections in March when your term doesn’t end until June 30?

It is to allow the incoming board members to work with their outgoing counterparts so they can learn the ropes of their position. The new board needs to have input in planning the budget and programs for the next year. Who better to than to inform them on the why’s and how’s of your current budget and programs than you?

The incoming board should have the opportunity to attend the State annual convention, attend district trainings and have time to learn from the current board.

District and State needs the incoming officer list so we can reach out to the incoming teams to share information they will need for the upcoming year.

The best way to ensure the longevity of your PTA and honor all of the hard work you and your team have put into it, is to embrace the new board. Hold your elections on schedule and work with the new team so they can prepare over the summer and start their term on a positive note, not playing catch up.

We are just an email, text, phone call or Zoom meeting away if you have questions.
A new resource designed specifically with district and council level advocacy chairs in mind, to support your advocacy efforts.

CREATING A POSITIVE LEADERSHIP CLIMATE

- Is willing to attend training opportunities to further understand the organization
- Believes in people and helps others achieve goals
- Communicates well orally and in writing
- Delegates responsibility
- Is willing to do the job others are unable to do

LEADERSHIP QUALITIES

- Knowledge of, and commitment to, PTA positions – A commitment to PTA’s views and beliefs is essential to being a PTA leader.
- Good communication skills – Successful leadership also requires excellent oral and written communication skills, as well as active listening allowing you to be more empathetic with others. This includes the ability to offer constructive criticism.
- Conflict management skills – An effective leader has the ability to stand back and see what is happening within the group, assure that each member is heard, and not allow anyone to feel alienated or insecure because of another’s ego or ambition.
- Critical thinking skills – Critical thinking skills allow leaders to ask the right questions, select relevant data, weigh conflicting information, and determine the right course to follow.
- Decision-making abilities – A good leader knows when to determine if additional resources or input is required and when it is time to end discussion and determine a course of action.
- Faith in the process – A leader must have faith in the ability of everyday people to work to change school policy, succeed with a ballot initiative and engage in petition campaigns.
- Encouragement of others – The true test of leadership is putting the national, state, and local PTA goals before your own. This involves delegating tasks and authority, complementing others, thanking them and sharing credit.

CHRONIC SCHOOL ABSENTEEISM: WHAT PARENTS NEED TO KNOW

Chronic absence is defined as missing 10 percent or greater of the total number of days enrolled during the school year for any reason. It includes both excused, unexcused, out-of-school suspensions, and in-school suspensions that last more than one-half of the school day.

Chronic absenteeism means missing too much school—for any reason—excused or unexcused. Experts and a growing number of states define chronic absenteeism as missing 10% (or around 18 days) during a school year.

Students are chronically absent for many reasons. There are some reasons for absenteeism that cannot be avoided. Life happens. Common illness causing high fevers and fatigue happen. But, if your child is missing many days of school, or a few days every single month, it's important to consider the reason for the absenteeism.

- A nationwide study found that kids with ADHD, autism, or developmental delays are twice as likely to be chronically absent compared to kids without these conditions.
- Children with common chronic illnesses, such as asthma and type 1 diabetes miss more school when they are having more symptoms.
- Mental health conditions, like anxiety or depression, are common reasons for absences.
- Up to 5% of children have school-related anxiety and may create reasons why they should not go or outright refuse to attend school.

Add it all up, and this creates a lot of empty desks and missed school time.

Missing just two days a month of school—for any reason—can be a problem for kids in a number of ways. Children who are chronically absent in kindergarten and first grade are less likely to read on grade level by the third grade. For older students, being chronically absent is strongly associated with failing at school—even more than low grades or test scores. When absences add up, these students are more likely to be suspended and drop out of high school. Chronic absenteeism is also linked with teen substance use, as well as poor health as adults.

NATIONAL EATING DISORDERS AWARENESS WEEK

The goal of National Eating Disorders Awareness Week (#NEDAwareness) is to shine the spotlight on eating disorders by educating the public, spreading a message of hope, and putting lifesaving resources into the hands of those in need.

Every Body Has a Seat at the Table. In a field where marginalized communities continue to be underrepresented, conversations on raising awareness, challenging systemic biases, and sharing stories from all backgrounds and experiences are welcomed.

For more information and to build a movement to raise awareness and support those affected by eating disorders: https://www.nationaleatingdisorders.org/get-involved/nedawareness

What causes Eating Disorders?
Eating disorders may be caused by several factors including genetics, brain biology, personality traits, and cultural ideals.

- One factor is genetics. Twin and adoption studies involving twins who were separated at birth and adopted by different families provide some evidence that eating disorders may be hereditary. This type of research has generally shown that if one twin develops an eating disorder, the other has a 50% likelihood of developing one too.

- Personality traits are another cause. In particular, neuroticism, perfectionism, and impulsivity are three personality traits often linked to a higher risk of developing an eating disorder.

- Other potential causes include perceived pressures to be thin, cultural preferences for thinness, and exposure to media promoting such ideals. Certain eating disorders appear to be mostly nonexistent in cultures that haven’t been exposed to Western ideals of thinness.

- More recently, experts have proposed that differences in brain structure and biology may also play a role in the development of eating disorders.

  - Neuroticism: Defined as a tendency toward anxiety, depression, self-doubt, and other negative feelings.

  - Perfectionism: Defined as the need to be or appear to be perfect, or even to believe that it’s possible to achieve perfection. It is typically viewed as a positive trait rather than a flaw

  - Impulsivity: Defined as a tendency to act on a whim, displaying behavior characterized by little or no forethought, reflection, or consideration of the consequences.

THE ARTS: PARENTS’ GUIDE TO ARTS EDUCATION IN CALIFORNIA PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Get Arts Education Materials for Your Next Meeting or Event

Students with a comprehensive arts education are more likely to be recognized for their academic achievement overall. California State PTA, in partnership with Create CA is excited to provide the newly revised Parents’ Guide to Arts Education in California Public Schools (also known as the VAPA Guide).

This guide, which has been updated to reflect the new standards for instruction related to the arts, provides an overview of what your child will learn in the disciplines of dance, music, theater and the visual arts by the end of each grade level. We encourage you to utilize the guide to ensure your school district promotes a proper arts curriculum. Visit the Parent’s Guide to Arts Education in California Public Schools page on the California State PTA website to download the guide in English or Spanish. This guide provides an overview of what your child will learn in the arts disciplines of dance, music, theater and the visual arts by the end of each grade level.

By asking about the arts program at your child’s school, you are showing your interest in all students, not just the “talented,” having the opportunity to express their unique individuality through creating. You can download the entire guide, or just the section(s) pertaining to your child’s grade level.

Learn more about how to use the guide by watching an informative webinar. You can access the webinar and get more information at: https://capta.org.

You can receive 1-3 newly revised Parents’ Guide to Arts Education in CA Public Schools in a standard 9x11 envelope for free. You can also order some vibrant posters created by Create CA and show them on screen during your next meeting.

These persuasive materials will inspire your participants to take action to bring more arts education options to their child’s school or school district.

31st DISTRICT MUSIC SCHOLARSHIP
Submitted by Jenny Smith, Music Scholarship Chair

The Darlene Panfill Music Scholarship Program is adapting from an in-person audition experience to an online submission platform for this year. The guidelines have been reformatted and changes for the new process have been clarified. You can download the application and requirements at 31stdistptsao.org/music-scholarship/

Submissions are due on March 26th at 11:59 PM. Each category of brass, woodwinds, piano, percussion, voice, and strings will have two or three judges reviewing every submission and providing comments, critique, and advice for improvement. Judges’ comments will be distributed once the judges have had time to review every submission, and recipients of the scholarships will be announced before the end of April.

To our participants:
“While meeting in person is still unsafe, it would be far easier to put all of our programs on hiatus and wait until things go back to normal. I personally believe that taking the easy way out does a huge disservice to the momentum and growth of our young musicians. I hope that this unconventional opportunity will provide an outlet for the creativity, skill, talent, and hard work of students that are currently going without recognition or praise. To all of our participants, we hope that this virtual interpretation of an audition process will help to reignite your hibernating passions and help you to continue moving forward with your musicianship. And for some of you, it will even provide funds to help you start, or continue private lessons. We hope to all be back together again soon with in-person auditions and our annual Concert of Performers. But in the meantime, thank you for your support of our program, your support of the arts in your world, and lastly, take care and be safe.”

Meet Jenny Smith, student member of the 31st District PTSA Board of Managers

My name is Jenny Smith. I grew up in the San Fernando Valley surrounded by music. When I was asked to be the chair of the Music Scholarship Program because of my unique experience as both a music student and teacher in online settings, I jumped at the opportunity. I feel if even one child submits an audition tape, continuing the program this year will have been worth it.

My parents felt that music was an important part of education and enrolled me and my older brother in lessons early. I began with piano and added flute, marimba and other percussion instruments as well as the marching arts to my music expertise. Gold Drum and Bugle Corps, Blue Knights Drum and Bugle Corps, and Broken City Percussion were, and are, my homes away from home. The people I met and the experiences I had touring the country taught me lessons of patience, motivation, and work ethic that I know would have taken years to form had I not been involved with these groups.

The students, teachers, and performers I have had the joy of working with and playing alongside have taught me so much about music and about life. I was lucky enough to have a jumpstart with my musical career by taking lessons young and having the means to participate in the music programs available to me at and after school. I have met so many incredible musicians with different backgrounds, different starts, and different passions that are all tied together through their love of music, regardless of skill level.
What Is Family Engagement

“Communicating and doing things with your student, your student’s teacher or your student’s school to support your student’s learning and success. Parents, family members and other caregivers can be involved in a student’s education in many ways.” – California Department of Education

Well-informed, engaged parents make a difference for student success in school and beyond. A home environment that encourages learning is a bigger factor in student achievement than a parent’s income, education level or cultural background. Whether it’s reading together, monitoring homework at the kitchen table, talking to teachers about a child’s progress, joining PTA or taking an active part in school governance and decision-making, parent involvement is vital to student achievement.

Decades of research indicates that students with involved parents are more likely to attend school regularly, perform better in school, develop better social skills and go on to post-secondary education. As an important stakeholder, engaged parents take part in all aspects of their child’s education and development from preschool to high school. This successful strategy is based an understanding that parents are children’s first teachers and key resources in their education and growth.

- INvolvement makes a big difference – Research shows family engagement is a major factor in student success, with an encouraging home environment serving as a bigger factor in student achievement than a parent’s income, education level or cultural background. Engaged parents take part in all aspects of their child’s education and development from preschool to high school. And with parent involvement as one of the eight key areas in the new Local Control and Accountability Plans (LCAPs), authentic family engagement in schools is vital for school improvement and student achievement.

FAMILY ENGAGEMENT

- PARENT-TEACHER COMMUNICATION IS KEY — Strong interaction, teamwork and partnership between families and teachers creates the optimal environment for student success. Parents can make a difference by staying up to date on classroom and school news, attending school events whenever possible and addressing concerns or questions honestly, openly and early on.

- PARENT-ADVOCACY OPPORTUNITIES ABOUND – New state laws and standards mean new opportunities for parents to get involved in the education process. Parents’ advocacy, involvement and feedback on school priorities are required as part of the new Local Control Funding Formula (LCFF) and related Local Control and Accountability Plans (LCAPs), making family engagement more important than ever before. Families can contact their school districts to make their voices heard in the LCFF/LCAP process. Parents can contact their schools to see if they offer the California State PTA’s award-winning School Smarts Parent Engagement Program, which offers family-friendly training on California’s education system and how parents can be effective advocates.

With thousands of kids heading back to school starting as early as next week, California State PTA offers parents the top three trends in education during this back-to-school season.

1. Family engagement leads to student success. Research shows that authentic family engagement is a key factor in long-term student success — including better student attendance, higher graduation rates and increased student achievement. Our recently enacted bill, Assembly Bill 2878 (2018), is a family engagement measure that uses research-based guidelines to define what authentic family engagement could look like in Education Code in order to guide schools, districts and county offices of education. Learn more about the bill and the importance of family engagement.

2. Safe children are better learners. We believe that every child is entitled to a safe and peaceful school environment that is orderly and empowering, in which students and staff are free to learn and teach without the threat of physical and psychological harm. When kids feel safe and secure, they can better focus on learning at school and in the home and can achieve academic success. Learn more about the importance of safe school environments in the toolkit.

3. It starts with attendance. Children need to be in school to learn. If children don’t show up for school every day, they miss out on developing fundamental skills. Data shows children who are chronically absent in kindergarten and first grade are far less likely to read proficiently at the end of third grade. Parents and families are essential partners in making sure students attend school and play a key role in identifying the barriers to attendance as well as what motivates students to go to school.

TIPS TO CALM START-OF-SCHOOL JITTERS

The back-to-school season is an exciting time, but it can also be an anxious time for some children - and parents, too! Preparing in advance can help your child feel more confident and have a more positive school experience.

California State PTA offers guidance for parents and students for helping to calm jitters during the start of school:

- Re-assure your child. Anxieties and concerns are normal. Many children will experience these feelings at the start of the school year. Encourage your children to talk openly with you and with teachers about concerns or worries they may have.

- Point out the positives. Starting a new school year can be fun. Your child will see old friends and meet new ones. The first week of school offers a chance to learn about new things and pursue interests. Reinforce the fun and excitement of learning with your child.

- Prepare ahead. Have your child pick out the clothes he or she plans to wear to school the next day. This will save time and stress in the morning. Encourage everyone in the house to go to bed early and get up 15 to 30 minutes earlier so they’re not rushing around in the morning. Allow enough time for a good breakfast, and make arrangements for your child’s lunch. During the first week of school, find out if any additional materials are requested (pencils, folders, etc.) Remember: Your school, local nonprofit groups and PTAs often can help with providing school supplies.

- Encourage safe traveling to and from school. Find another child in the neighborhood with whom your youngster can walk or bike to school, or ride with on the bus. Briefly review the basics of safe walking and biking. If you feel it is appropriate, drive your child (or walk with him) to school and pick him up on the first day.

- Plan for special needs. If your child requires medication, treatment or has special needs, talk to the school administrative staff, then talk to your child about how those needs will be handled at school (what time to go to the office for medication or what foods in the cafeteria to avoid, etc.).

- Prepare for emergency situations. What should your child do if you are late picking her up, or if no one is at the house when she arrives home? What should your child do if he feels picked on while at recess? Talking in advance with your child and having a plan will help minimize panic and stress.
